The simplicity of good building site protection

The High Security coupler enhances building site protection. The coupler connects the mobile fences and can only be fitted and removed using a special, registered key.

Installing or opening the coupler using other tools or criminal implements is not possible. The site manager controls the issuing of the special keys and does not need to check the entire site for open fences every day. Burglars will go elsewhere, especially if the building site has total Heras building site protection, including the Optica Secure and M500 Anti Climb mobile fences. High Security couplers can be bought or rented.
